

IU Asian Culture Center

Based on the Bloomington campus of Indiana University, the Asian Culture Center aims to promote awareness, understanding, and acceptance of Asian and Asian American cultures, history, and issues as an integral part of the fabric of American life in the United States. The Asian Culture Center accomplishes this through advocacy, institutional resources, cultural and educational support, and community outreach activities that support participation in and dialogue from students, faculty, staff, and residents of Indiana. One does not have to be of Asian heritage to be involved with the Asian Culture Center at Indiana University. Everyone is welcome.

Opportunities for Volunteering

Get involved with the activities that interest you!

The Asian Culture Center provides a number of programs and services to the Bloomington community on a regular basis. Some of these include:

ACC Film Series: Showcases films with Asian themes, subjects, and issues.

Asian Cultures Around Campus: A series of performances and instructional demonstrations featuring student talents as well as homegrown and renowned artists from Bloomington.

Monday Table Topics: A monthly round-table discussion and luncheon with IU faculty and visiting scholars at Indiana University on topics related to Asian culture, history, arts, education, politics, government and business.

Over A Cup Of Tea: A monthly forum on issues affecting Asian Pacific Americans.

Cooking Demonstration: The ACC invites guests who will unveil their culinary knowledge and tell you about the varieties and nuances of the featured Asian dish, as well as its preparation.

Asian Language Learning Program: The ACC offers free tutorials at all levels of proficiency in Japanese, Filipino, Chinese, Korean, Hindi, and Vietnamese.
