

INDIANA UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES
PRESENTS
A THEMESTER 2009 EVENT
SPONSORED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF AFRICAN AMERICAN AND AFRICAN DIASPORA STUDIES

“(RE) PRESENTING RACE IN AFRICAN AMERICAN FILM”

Free and Open to the Public

“Nothing But a Man”

Showing: November 12, 2009

7:15 p.m. - 10:15 p.m.

A201 (Theatre and Drama Center, Lee Norvelle)

(Discussant: Dr. Audrey T. McCluskey)

Plot: A devil-may-care young man is drawn to a grounded young woman, they part, he realizes he prefers stability to freedom, they reconcile. The interest for viewers today as well as 40 years ago lies in the protagonists' skin color: they are black, as is most everyone else on screen. And they live in the Deep South of the early 1960s, where the still-operative system of peonage conspired to keep African-Americans enslaved economically and beaten down emotionally

Runtime: 95 minutes

thēm·es·ter
Evolution, Diversity and Change
2009

Drinks and Snacks will be served!!!

<http://themester.indiana.edu/>