Iran and the Challenge of the Arab Spring

Juan Cole
Director of the Center for South Asian Studies and the Richard P. Mitchell Collegiate Professor of History, University of Michigan. Professor Cole is a renowned American scholar, public intellectual, and historian of the modern Middle East and South Asia.

Wednesday, November 16, 5:30-6:30 p.m.
Special Exhibitions Gallery, first floor
Indiana University Art Museum

Reception 6:30–7:30 p.m.
Thomas T. Solley Atrium, first floor

Sponsored by the Center for the Study of the Middle East

Iran 30 Years Later: The 1979 Revolution and the 2009 Presidential Protests

Elizabeth Rauh
University of Michigan doctoral student

Friday, November 18, 5:30-6:30 p.m.
Special Exhibitions Gallery, first floor
Indiana University Art Museum

Reception 6:30–7:30 p.m.
Thomas T. Solley Atrium, first floor

Presented in conjunction with The Graphics of Revolution and War: Iranian Poster Arts, on view in the IU Art Museum’s Special Exhibitions Gallery from October 12 through December 18, 2011. The exhibition and related programming are funded by the Thomas T. Solley Endowed Fund for the Curator of Asian Art, IU Themester 2011, IU Art Museum’s Arc Fund, and the Center for the Study of the Middle East. The posters are on loan from the Special Collections Research Center of The University of Chicago.