Problem Statements: Examples

1. How are teachers' expectations of tall children reflected in those students' achievement?

2. What effect does discipline have on creativity in elementary art?

3. What is the impact of malnutrition, associated with the child from a low socio-economic background, on the development of that child's reading skills and comprehension?

4. What is the effect of an individualized reading program on the reading ability of the disinterested reader?

5. What effect does student handwriting have on a teacher's evaluation of essay responses to items on a secondary home economics test?

6. What effect does verbal interaction between mother and child have on a child's verbal competence in the initial school years?

7. Which of the following methods of instruction for 4th-year mathematics would be more effective in moving students toward desired outcomes - a teacher in the classroom or that teacher on instructional television?

8. How are college grade point average and on-the-job counseling effectiveness related?

9. How does the melodic presentation of subject matter affect the length of attention span for preschool children?

10. What effect will quiet background music have on the aggressive behavior of emotional disturbed children?