This course builds upon your first three semesters of beginning Italian (or equivalent). You will deepen your understanding and continue your practice of fundamental concepts and structures in Italian language and culture. You will be involved in a broad variety of assignments and activities that aim to deepen and strengthen your proficiency in listening, speaking, reading and writing; and your ability to understand, evaluate, compare, and appreciate many aspects of Italian culture. Among the many things that you will be able to do by the end of this course are (1) listen and comprehend intermediate level audio and video texts (2) be able to talk about plans, hopes and wishes and offer a variety of opinions using the conditional, subjunctive modes and hypothetical structures (3) read Italian intermediate level language texts from a greater variety of sources (literary excerpts, newspapers, web-sites, advertisements, poetry, music etc.) (4) write short essays and other texts with accuracy and coherency on a range of familiar subjects and (5) demonstrate cultural understanding of the topics introduced, integrated with certain aspects of Italian history and geography. Our hope is that your enthusiasm and confidence to communicate in Italian will grow steadily and we look forward to helping you reach these goals.

Syllabus: This syllabus outlines the main vocabulary, grammar, and culture topics included in this course. It also announces departmental exams and other assessments so that you can plan ahead. Your instructor will announce additional dates for graded assignments that are specific to your class.*

*Homework will be assigned on a daily basis. Please keep track of it and keep up with it.

Important Rules, Resources, and Tips

1 - Attendance Policy:

A. Unexcused absences. Students are allowed 3* unexcused absences, BUT we would prefer that you had none. Daily upkeep and contributions count for a lot in this class. Each additional absence after 3, unless excused (e.g., illness when accompanied by a medical note, family emergency, etc.), will lower your final grade by 2%.*

*In evening sections, students are allowed 2 unexcused absences.

*If you miss a class it is your responsibility to obtain homework assignments and notes from classmates or from the instructor.

B. Lates. Of course, we prefer you come late than not at all (meglio tardi che mai), but three (3) lates equals one absence.

C. SMS/Cell-phones/Laptops. Both are strictly prohibited. If either are used during class time, the day will count as an absence. Please turn off and tuck safely away before entering our classroom. Laptops are permitted for special, documented circumstances.

D. Make-up exams, quizzes, or other assessments. There will be no make-up exams or quizzes, except in extraordinary cases (e.g., illness when accompanied by a medical note, family emergency, etc.).

2- Participation: In class, students are expected not only to attend regularly, but also to participate actively (try the best you can) and volunteer. The participation grade in the table above is based on active participation (in Italian) in class.

Out of class, students are required to attend at least one Circolo Italiano and one other Co-curricular event/activity (these vary each semester). Your participation in many of these will count toward a very high participation grade, provided you do not have excessive in-class absences.

Co-Curricular Activities:

A. Circolo Italiano: The Italian Program hosts an Italian conversation hour every other week on Wednesdays from 7:00-8:15 p.m. in 004 Ballantine Hall. This is an opportunity to meet faculty and students, to speak in Italian and perhaps share Italian experiences. Most often pizza or sweets and drinks are served. All students of Italian language and culture must attend at least one Circolo Italiano during the semester and can improve their overall class participation grade by attending several (at least 4) in one semester. See your instructor for details.

<http://www.indiana.edu/~frithome/undergrads/circolo.shtml>

B. Italian Film Nights: On the opposite week of Circolo Italiano, the Italian program will show an Italian film. Your instructor will provide details on a regular basis. See:

<http://www.indiana.edu/~frithome/undergrads/circolo-films.shtml>

C. Opera Trip (on campus) On Friday September 25th students of Italian will receive a discount to attend the opening night performance of Rossini's L'Italiana in Algeri (sung in Italian with English subtitles). We will collect money and go as a class to this event. It costs $10/person. Friends/partners are welcome to join, they don't have to speak or study Italian. Musical Arts Center. 8 p.m. N.B. Our class will meet at 7:30 in the lobby to get seats together just when the doors open. If you have never been to an opera before or fear you won't like it, we're pretty sure you'll be surprised. Try it and share your opinions after the show!

D. Invited Guests/Talks/Performances/Lectures To be announced.

3- Homework: will be assigned every day and will include exercises from your text, workbook, lab manual, handouts, or other class materials that your instructor(s) propose. Please note that it is your responsibility to contact a friend or email your professor, if you have missed class and need the assignment. Homework is part of the preparation/participation portion of your final grade. We encourage you to keep up very responsibly and ask questions about any uncertainties you may have.

4- Class preparation and participation: are essential components of this class and will help you to maximize your ability to communicate in Italian. (see final grade breakdown)

5- Oral “prove” (1 formal and several informal) take place regularly throughout the semester. Le “prove orali” or “esami orali” vary in format from brief conversations with a classmate to an interview with your instructor to individual or collaborative presentations, skits, scenarios, dialogues, mock interviews. Your instructor will announce and explain all relevant information at the appropriate time. Since our courses center on communication, it is likely that you will have many throughout the semester

6- Laboratory and video work: are mandatory homework assignments. Most materials will be available for you online so that you can access them from home or any campus computer lab. Your teacher will provide you with details about the website and course materials you should access. Laboratory assignments will be collected on the established due date and will receive a grade.

7- On-campus Language Laboratories: are one of several places in which you can do your laboratory work or explore other foreign language resources at Indiana University. Visit the CeLTie home page at: <http://www.iub.edu/~celtie/>. Or explore the different laboratory sites at: <http://languagelab.bh.indiana.edu/facilitieslanglab.html>

8- Percorsi. 1st Edition Student Website: Percorsi!'s Student Companion Website has self-correcting grammar and vocabulary exercises. It even contains English grammar terms and rules. See http://wps.prenhall.com/wl_italiano_percorsi_1/

9- Progetto Italica: An additional web-based Italian language and cultural resource with video clips, information, and a variety of exercises. Progetto Italica, (<http://www.nd.edu/~italica>) Username - members Password - girasole.

10- La Pagina: is a learning portal designed by Associate Instructor Federico Pacchioni to offer numerous interesting and useful links for language learners at every level. Here you will find links to Italian TV, Radio, dictionaries, cultural sites. You will be able to listen to and read authentic materials, chat in or about Italian, find email partners, etc. (<http://web.mac.com/pacchioni/iWeb/homepage/lapagina.html>)

11- Writing (Scrittura): All Italian language courses have regular writing assignments or scrittura. Your instructor will provide guide sheets with topics for each one. ALL SCRITTURA MUST BE TYPED AND DOUBLE-SPACED AND HAVE A TITLE. IF NOT YOUR TEACHER CAN REFUSE THEM.

12- Class Portfolio: This is not an additional project, but rather a neat, organized FOLDER in which you collect all of your written work for the semester. Please purchase a sturdy folder and begin during week one, to keep all of your graded material in it. The portfolio will typically include all tests and quizzes, graded homework, labs, outlines, drafts and corrected versions of "scrittura" and any special presentations, projects, or extra credit. Portfolios will be collected for evaluation around mid-semester and before the final exam.

13- Tutors: You can find a list of authorized Italian tutors at: <http://www.indiana.edu/~frithome/tutors.shtml>. Please note that tutors can explain to you and practice (using English) any course related materials. However, they may not write or directly correct any of your formal writing (scrittura) or homework assignments. Tutors have an hourly wage. Some tutors may accept 2-3 students for the same practice hour.

14- HONESTY POLICY – applies to everyday work and homework! Please read carefully. In accordance with the Indiana University's Code of Student rights, Responsibilities, and conduct, no unauthorized assistance will be tolerated on tests, graded homework assignments, and formal writing assignments and all such infractions—large or small—will be reported to the College. You are asked not to consult with tutors, peers or native speaking friends and relatives for your graded writing assignments. In addition, you are not to use Internet translation engines or translation programs of any sort. The use of such devices is considered an infraction of the honor code. Copying and pasting directly from the Internet is also considered plagiarism. All instructors have numerous ways of checking your text against published works on and off the Internet, so please observe this rule. In addition, all Internet resources for presentations and writing need to be cited in a bibliography format at the end of your document.

Academic Misconduct Statements, including the University's definition of plagiarism can be found at: <http://dsa.indiana.edu/Code/index1.html>.

Part II: Student Responsibilities

Academic misconduct is defined as any activity that tends to undermine the academic integrity of the institution. The university may discipline a student for academic misconduct. Academic misconduct may involve human, hard-copy, or electronic resources.

Policies of academic misconduct apply to all course-, department-, school-, and university related activities, including field trips, conferences, performances, and sports activities off-campus, exams outside of a specific course structure (such as take-home exams, entrance exams, or auditions, theses and master's exams, and doctoral qualifying exams and dissertations), and research work outside of a specific course structure (such as lab experiments, data collection, service learning, and collaborative research projects). The faculty member may take into account the seriousness of the violation in assessing a penalty for acts of academic misconduct. The faculty member must report all cases of academic misconduct to the dean of students, or appropriate official. Academic misconduct includes, Cheating is considered to be an attempt to use or provide unauthorized assistance, materials, information, or study aids in any form and in any academic exercise or environment. but is not limited to, the following:

1. Cheating

Cheating is considered to be an attempt to use or provide unauthorized assistance, materials, information, or study aids in any form and in any academic exercise or environment.

- a. A student must not use external assistance on any “in-class” or “take-home” examination, unless the instructor specifically has authorized external assistance. This prohibition includes, but is not limited to, the use of tutors, books, notes, calculators, computers, and wireless communication devices.

- b. A student must not use another person as a substitute in the taking of an examination or quiz, nor allow other persons to conduct research or to prepare work, without advance authorization from the instructor to whom the work is being submitted.
- c. A student must not use materials from a commercial term paper company; files of papers prepared by other persons, or submit documents found on the Internet. A student must not collaborate with other persons on a particular project and submit a copy of a written report that is represented explicitly or implicitly as the student's individual work.
- d. A student must not use any unauthorized assistance in a laboratory, at a computer terminal, or on fieldwork.
- e. A student must not steal examinations or other course materials, including but not limited to, physical copies and photographic or electronic images.
- f. A student must not submit substantial portions of the same academic work for credit or honors more than once without permission of the instructor or program to whom he work is being submitted.
- g. A student must not, without authorization, alter a grade or score in any way, nor alter answers on a returned exam or assignment for credit.

2. Fabrication

A student must not falsify or invent any information or data in an academic exercise including, but not limited to, records or reports, laboratory results, and citation to the sources of information.

3. Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined as presenting someone else's work, including the work of other students, as one's own. Any ideas or materials taken from another source for either written or oral use must be fully acknowledged, unless the information is common knowledge. What is considered "common knowledge" may differ from course to course.

- a. A student must not adopt or reproduce ideas, opinions, theories, formulas, graphics, or pictures of another person without acknowledgment.
- b. A student must give credit to the originality of others and acknowledge indebtedness whenever:
 - 1. Directly quoting another person's actual words, whether oral or written;
 - 2. Using another person's ideas, opinions, or theories;

3. Paraphrasing the words, ideas, opinions, or theories of others, whether oral or written;
4. Borrowing facts, statistics, or illustrative material; or
5. Offering materials assembled or collected by others in the form of projects or collections without acknowledgment.

4. Interference

A student must not steal, change, destroy, or impede another student's work, nor should the student unjustly attempt, through a bribe, a promise of favors or threats, to affect any student's grade or the evaluation of academic performance. Impeding another student's work includes, but is not limited to, the theft, defacement, or mutilation of resources so as to deprive others of the information they contain.

5. Violation of Course Rules

A student must not violate course rules established by a department, the course syllabus, verbal or written instructions, or the course materials that are rationally related to the content of the course or to the enhancement of the learning process in the course.

6. Facilitating Academic Dishonesty

A student must not intentionally or knowingly help or attempt to help another student to commit an act of academic misconduct, nor allow another student to use his or her work or resources to commit an act of misconduct.
