Department of Folklore & Ethnomusicology
Undergraduate Handbook

Indiana University

Krystie Herndon
Undergraduate Academic Advisor
501 N. Park
(812) 856-4621
kherndon@indiana.edu

Pravina Shukla
Director of Undergraduate Studies
506 N. Fess
(812) 856-1715
pravina@indiana.edu
Table of Contents

The Department of Folklore & Ethnomusicology...... 4
What is Folklore?................................................................. 5
What is Ethnomusicology?.................................................. 5
Why Study Folklore & Ethnomusicology?................... 5
Declaring a Major............................................................. 6
Major Requirements......................................................... 6
Double Major..................................................................... 6
Minor................................................................................. 7
Scholarships......................................................................... 7
Performance......................................................................... 7
Overseas Study................................................................. 8
Resources............................................................................. 8
Internships........................................................................... 9
Folklore & Ethnomusicology Student Association.... 9
Service Learning.............................................................. 10
Jobs...................................................................................... 10
Did You Know?.................................................................... 12
Testimonials......................................................................... 13
Recommended Courses.................................................... 15
Folklore & Ethnomusicology Faculty....................... 23
Faculty Book List.............................................................. 28
Contact Information......................................................... 30
Helpful Links...................................................................... 31
The Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology consists of two institutes – the Ethnomusicology Institute and the Folklore Institute. The department offers BA, MA and PhD degrees. The two Institutes operate both independently and cooperatively to offer students a rich environment for study of the world’s creative and expressive forms.

The nexus of Folklore and Ethnomusicology in one department fosters the integration of common interests, while department resources and faculty specializations allow for concentrated exploration of interests particular to each area.

The Department is especially strong in the study of:

- Performance studies
- Ethnographic theory and research
- Folklore theory and research
- Comparative epistemology
- Multimedia presentation and preservation
- Public sector
- Heritage, intellectual property and cultural policy
- Area studies

Concentrations in both Folklore and Ethnomusicology focus on the cultural contexts as well as the experiential and cognitive aspects of:

- Expressive forms
- Material and visual culture
- Music
- Verbal arts
- Identity
- Worldview and belief
“Folk” can refer to any group of people – from any economic, religious, generational or ethnic background – who share a common interest. As a form of communication, folklore is created when people interact with one another. “Lore” represents the knowledge and artistry of a group in forms such as stories and jokes, art, architecture, music, dance, custom, belief, ritual, and festival. Folklore interprets, diffuses, or incites pressure points in modern society.

Ethnomusicology is the study of music of all types and from all cultures. Ethnomusicologists not only listen to the sounds of music within particular cultures and events, but also inquire into people’s ideas and beliefs about music. Ethnomusicology explores the role of music in human life, analyzes relationships between music and culture, and studies music cross-culturally.

The folklore/ethnomusicology major includes the study of performance, specific cultures and regions, human diversity and world view, and research methods. Folklore and ethnomusicology emphasize fieldwork methods to learn how societies function. Fieldwork involves documenting and learning about people’s lives, expressions, and beliefs in context. Through the study of different social groups and cultures, students gain skills in observation, analysis, documentation, reporting, and multicultural understanding. The study of folklore and ethnomusicology taps capacities we possess as human beings, and develops the qualities we need to be informed and responsible people.

Many courses in folklore and ethnomusicology fulfill distribution and culture studies requirements. There are opportunities for direct student-faculty contact through individual and collaborative research, such as: fieldwork projects; specially designed readings courses; internships in arts and cultural organizations; and performance. Students may make use of the department’s archives and state-of-the-art laboratory for sound-video analysis and production.

Declaring a Major

Students who wish to earn a major in folklore/ethnomusicology must first be admitted into the College of Arts and Sciences. Twenty-six credit hours of course work, completion of the English requirement and a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 are prerequisites. To change a major to folklore/ethnomusicology, or to become a double major, students should contact the undergraduate academic advisor at kherndon@indiana.edu, or at 856-4621 on Wednesdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. No walk-ins, please.

Major Requirements

Students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours in folklore and ethnomusicology courses, including:

- F401 Theories & Methods
- F497 Advanced Seminar
- One additional 400-level course
- Two 300-level courses
- No more than 6 credit hours at the 100-level
- A maximum of two approved courses from other disciplines

Double Major

Anthropology, comparative literature, communication and culture, classical studies, English, foreign languages, history, journalism, political science, psychology, religious studies, sociology, telecommunications, theatre and drama and area studies are just a few of the majors that pair well with folklore/ethnomusicology. With careful planning, the pursuit of a double major will not extend the time needed for degree completion. Students must satisfy requirements for a major in both departments. One approved course can be cross-listed.

Minor

Students must complete at least 15 credit hours in folklore and ethnomusicology courses, including:

- F401 Theories & Methods
- One 300-level course
- Three additional courses with a maximum of two at the 100-level

Scholarships

The John W. Ashton Scholarship Award was established in 1970 by the daughter of John W. Ashton, Professor of English, Dean in the Graduate School, and folklore scholar and enthusiast. It provides a biennial award of $500 to a major in folklore/ethnomusicology with a strong academic record. The department also routinely nominates successful candidates for such prestigious campus-wide scholarships as the (up to) $20,000 Palmer Brandon Prize.

Performance

The Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology encourages its majors to include courses in Latin American music performance, taught by Ethnomusicology Professor Javier León, and other such course offerings. The ensembles include singers and instrumentalists and no audition or prerequisite training in music is required to enroll. This performance experience allows students to engage a musical culture with a degree of intimacy unmatched by the classroom lecture format. Other performance opportunities include student-organized ensembles, such as Women of Mass Percussion (Afro-Brazilian). The African American Arts Institute, directed by adjunct professor Dr. Charles Sykes, offers three performance courses for academic credit: The IU Soul Revue, the African American Choral Ensemble, and the African American Dance Company, led by adjunct professor Iris Rosa. Performance opportunities are also available through Bloomington’s Lotus World Music Festival, which, throughout the year, hosts concerts and workshops by outstanding musicians from across the globe.

Overseas Study

IU offers overseas study programs in 16 languages (including English) in more than 25 countries throughout the world. Apart from earning college credits while learning about a country’s culture, students also may make use of the overseas opportunity to conduct fieldwork and study music. Students in our department have chosen to study in Ghana, Australia, Peru, Estonia, India, and Europe, among other sites. Students should first contact the IU Office of Overseas Study for information on programs and general IU policies.

Resources

The department’s educational mission is enhanced by its world-renowned Archives of Traditional Music (ATM), directed by ethnomusicology adjunct faculty member Dr. Alan Burdette. The ATM is a rich repository of field recordings from around the globe, dating from the 1880s. The Archive of African American Music and Culture, founded by ethnomusicology faculty Dr. Portia Maultsby, attracts students and scholars to its extensive collection of musics ranging from blues to gospel to rap. Savail (Sound and Video Analysis and Instruction Lab) is our state-of-the-art sound and video laboratory, stocked with equipment for analyzing sound and video recordings and converting them into ethnographic and instructional products. The EVIA (Ethnomusicological Video for Instruction and Analysis) Digital Archive serves as an online digital archive of video recordings and a searchable database for research and teaching. Traditional Arts Indiana (TAI) represents our partnership with the Indiana Arts Commission, which sponsors efforts to discover, document, present and preserve traditional forms of artistic expression in the state of Indiana. Indiana University also houses the Folklore Archives, a major archive of traditional forms of expression documented by students and faculty at Indiana University. Majors are encouraged to pursue internship, employment, and volunteer involvement with these units.

Internships

Majors in folklore/ethnomusicology have successfully completed internships in such local arts and cultural organizations as the Lotus Festival of World Music, the Mathers Museum of World Cultures, the Archives of African American Music and Culture, the African American Arts Institute, Traditional Arts Indiana, the Archives of Traditional Music, the Buskirk-Chumley Theater, the IU Art Museum, and the IU Career Development Center. Off-campus internships have also been arranged with the Eiteljorg Museum in Indianapolis, the Washington, D.C., Leadership Program, the Smithsonian Institute, and International Student Volunteers, Inc.

Majors in folklore/ethnomusicology have also served as volunteers with:

- Big Brothers/Big Sisters
- Kaia (women’s performance ensemble)
- Indiana Daily Student
- International Vocal Ensemble

Folklore & Ethnomusicology Student Association

The Folklore and Ethnomusicology Student Association (FESA) is an organization for all undergraduate students who share an interest in folklore and ethnomusicology. Majors, minors, and other interested students are welcome to attend the monthly meetings, and help plan departmental and campus-wide events such as the folklore and ethnomusicology film series, career night, and concerts series. Participation in the group provides opportunities for networking, leadership development and career exploration. Please contact the departmental advisor, Krystie Herndon, for meetings times and place.
Service Learning

Service learning provides ways for our faculty to integrate academic and public approaches into the curriculum. It provides hands-on experience in social justice and community development through the arts. By combining theory from folkloristic and ethnomusicological perspectives and practice from real-life experience, service learning fosters a broader understanding not only of the curriculum, but also of the student and his/her place in the broader Bloomington community. Students enrolled in F364 Children’s Folklore (taught by Dr. Fernando Orejuela), for example, learn the ethnographic methods vital to the work of folklorists and ethnomusicologists through their work with Templeton Elementary School and the Boys & Girls Club.

Since 2004, the department has offered the service learning course F404 Topics in Folklore/Folklife: Putting Folklore to Use in Communities in conjunction with the Crestmont Boys and Girls Club and the Crestmont Residents Council. These classes have linked cultural documentation on community development, working in partnership with neighborhood residents and leaders.

Jobs

Students graduating with a bachelor’s degree in folklore/ethnomusicology have found employment in a variety of public and private sites, including:

- Administrative Manager, IU Schuessler Institute for Social Research
- Screenplay Competition Director, Austin Film Festival
- Music store manager, Cincinnati
- Peace Corps Volunteer, Honduras
- Community Integration Developer, Americorps VISTA
- Children and Youth Ministries Director
- Director, Retired and Senior Volunteer Program, Area 10 Agency on Aging, Bloomington
• Disc Jockey, Indianapolis
• Collections Assistant, Monroe County Historical Society
• English teacher, Israel
• Popular music band manager/performer, Chicago
• Nursery school teacher
• ER hospital worker
• Music publicity agent, New York
• Restaurant manager

Folklore and ethnomusicology majors are encouraged to pursue graduate study in order to enhance their marketability. Unlike some areas in the humanities and social services, our graduates are in high demand. They are consistently placed in significant professional positions, in academia as well as in the public and private spheres. Professional appointments obtained by our graduates include numerous tenure-track appointments at colleges and universities across the United States and in several foreign countries. Among them are:

• Elon University
• Indiana State University
• Indiana University
• Indiana University of Pennsylvania
• Louisiana State University
• Michigan State University
• New York University
• Rhodes University (South Africa)
• Spelman College
• Texas A & M University
• Tokyo University of Foreign Studies
• University of Alabama
• University of California Los Angeles
• University of Illinois
• University of Louisiana
• University of Zimbabwe
Students of folklore and ethnomusicology have also found rewarding employment in a broad range of public outreach programs and agencies, including:

- The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame
- Smithsonian Institution
- The National Endowment for the Arts
- City Lore (New York)
- Archivists in oral history collections in Indiana and Kentucky
- Program Directors and Coordinators in Arts Councils in Maryland, Nevada, New York, and Utah
- Teachers and Staff in Libraries in Indiana, North Carolina, Texas, and Pennsylvania
- Curators in Museums in Indiana, Oklahoma, and Oregon

Did You Know?

- The Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology is the only unit of its kind in the U.S.
- The Folklore Institute is the oldest and largest comparable unit in the U.S.
- The IU Wells Library houses one of the best folklore collections in the world.
- The Journal of Folklore Research (JFR), a leading voice of contemporary folkloristic scholarship, is published three times a year by the Folklore Institute.
- The EVIA Digital Archive is global in scope, and currently is the only project of its kind that will collect, copy, annotate and preserve ethnomusicological video materials on the Web.
- The Business Office of the Society for Ethnomusicology is housed at Indiana University.
- A past president of the Society for Ethnomusicology is a member of the department’s faculty.
• The first president of the Irish Republic was a folklorist.
• At one time, the chairs of the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities were both folklorists.
• Faculty members in the department have specializations in traditions of Africa, the Middle East, Brazil, China, Japan, Peru, Ireland, India, Palestine, Judaism, Native Americans, and the U.S.

Testimonials

When I returned home from my IU freshman orientation and enthusiastically shared with my dad that I was going to be a Folklore major, he questioned, “What?!?!?” Not only had he never heard of such a thing, it didn’t sound nearly as promising as computer science. However, 7 years later, I am certain he would radically disagree. So would I. As a freshman, I began taking Folklore classes because they were the classes I was most passionate about. Through my Folklore classes, new ideas and ways of seeing the world were changing who I was and how I looked at things… My capacity for understanding my fellow humans and the world we live in was greatly increasing, my worldview was expanding, my depth of insight was helping me grow into a better person, my capacity for serving the world was much richer, and I was realizing solutions that could affect the violence and suffering in our world… Through my Folklore classes, I knew that I was awakening more and more to myself and where I came from, that I was yearning for meaning in life, and that this was satisfying my thirst… Through my Folklore classes, I knew that what I was learning was changing my life and would forever contribute to who I am and whatever I do.

If everyone in our world could study folklore, it would help to eradicate the plague of intolerance, separation, misunderstanding, and oppression that exists.

When I graduated in 2003 with a degree in folklore, I began a career path that has proven to be fulfilling, financially supportive, enriching, and beneficial to our world. I am so grateful that I trusted my folklore degree, as it has brought more gifts to my life than I ever would have asked for.

Christine McKenna, B.A. 2003 (Highest Distinction)

Due entirely to the outstanding faculty of the department, the courses I have taken in folklore and ethnomusicology have transformed the ways in which I conceive of human culture, especially in the areas of language, art, and narrative. This major has also profoundly influenced the course of my undergraduate studies, enriching and informing my education in a variety of other disciplines. Grounded in folklore, I have learned to examine, describe, and analyze objects and processes of human activity through a variety of interpretive lenses.
With the mentorship of the faculty and the support of its extraordinary staff, I feel that I have become a more effective writer, a more responsible scholar, and, as far as such things can be expressed meaningfully, a better person. I have not merely experienced this major, I have transformed and been transformed by it.

Daniel Youngren, B.A. 2008 (Highest Distinction)

In graduate school, I am doing coursework on folk art, public folklore, cultural conservation and fieldwork – things that are really captivating me and helping me to solidify my interests. I have IU to thank for helping me look at so many different things that I can take further. I can’t thank Dr. Burnim enough for everything she did for me the last few years, especially the fact that she helped me get into something that is truly going to help me bloom. This [folklore] is so much more exciting to me than medical school would have ever been…

Nicholas Hartmann, B.A. 2007 (Highest Distinction)

I feel privileged to have been able to experience the wide variety of subjects and opportunities through the Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology, and have thoroughly enjoyed working with faculty and fellow students.

Lorraine Hook, B.A. 2008

Studying folklore has been the highlight of my academic career and has shaped my thinking about culture, groups and artistic expression.

Sara Deuser, B.A. 2008

Being a student in the Folklore Department has been an extraordinary experience. After graduation, I plan on returning home to New York to pursue a career in corporate and political event planning, a profession that Dr. Sue Tuohy introduced me to when I was her student in her folklore capstone class. With my background in folklore, I am able to relate to different clients and have knowledge of their culture and customs that often far surpasses that of my colleagues.

Jaclyn Rheins, B.A. 2008

I truly appreciated the education and knowledge gained in the Folklore and Ethnomusicology Department at Indiana University.

Iva Jennifer Litvak, B.A. 2007

I am now living in NYC and working at a music publicity company. The music industry has been a good challenge, probably much more difficult and stressful than school ever was for me. Currently, I am personally representing people like Ali Farka Toure (recently-deceased singer/guitarist from Mali), Peter Frampton, Phish, Philip Glass, Lindsey Buckingham (of Fleetwood Mac), and a few others. I am also working with the Skirball Center for Performing Arts at NYU and St. Ann’s Warehouse (an avant-garde theatre in Brooklyn). Obviously, I am thrilled to have had this opportunity.

Brian Shimkovitz, B.A. 2003
CAREER DEVELOPMENT

ASCS Q275 Building Your Professional Portfolio

Q275 is a 1-credit-hour, 8-week class that teaches students how to create a professional portfolio and use it as a tool to market their skills and experiences in the world of work or graduate studies.

- Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
- Final in-class presentation but no final exam.

The portfolio is a powerful reflection tool and by the end of the course students have a clearer understanding of what they do well, which can impact future academic and career choices. The in-class presentation helps students sharpen their communication skills and articulate goals and skills in a professional setting.

ASCS Q294: Basic Career Development

Designed for freshmen and sophomores who are in the process of choosing a major or exploring career fields. Q294 is a 2-credit-hour course that meets for 8 weeks, with several sections offered in the residence halls.

This course is ideal for students who want to...

- Explore a variety of majors or career choices
- Gain a better understanding of their personality style, interests, values, and skills in relation to a major/career choice
- Research more in-depth information about a particular career field
- Participate in a structured approach to basic career planning

At the end of this course, you'll have a clearer understanding of career options and their relationship to your academic choices.

ASCS Q299: Job Search Strategies for Liberal Arts Students

Q299 is a 2-credit-hour, 8-week course to teach you how to conduct an effective job search. Learn how to:
• Perfect a resume outlining your skills and qualifications
• Write an impressive cover letter
• Understand interviewing dynamics
• Network effectively

Through Q299 you will also be able to:
• Analyze how your skills, interests and values affect your career search
• Identify marketable skills developed from a liberal arts education and learn how to convey the value of those skills to employers
• Locate resources that will assist you in finding a professional position
• Prepare for a smooth transition from school to post-graduate endeavors

The mastery of these skills is critical regardless of your post-graduate plans. Q299 is open to all IU students of sophomore, junior or senior status.

SOCIAL AND HISTORICAL STUDIES

F121 World Arts and Cultures
F210 Myth, Legend, and Popular Science
F215 Health and Morbidity in Traditional Cultures
F230 Music in Social Movements
F253 Folklore and the Social Sciences
  • Body Art
  • Popular Religion & Cyberspace
  • Ethnography of the Performer
  • Folklore & the Public Sphere
  • Folklore and Religion
  • Music and Politics
  • Music in Socio-Political Movements
  • Folklore in Education: Multicultural Issues
F290 Myth, Ritual, Symbol
F330 Folk Culture & Related Fields
F353 Native American Film & Video
F401 Methods and Theories
F405 Studying Ethnomusicology
F430 Folklore and Related Disciplines
  • Constructing Tradition: East Asia
- Ethnography of Music
- Ethnomusicology & Public Sector
- Psychology Issues in Folklore
- Folklore & Psychology
- Music in Socio-Political Movements
- Music and Politics
- Semiotics of Culture: Identity & Symbolic Form
- Learning Theories & Folklore
- Folklore & Related Disciplines
- Folklore & Social Science
- Religious Folklore & the Americas

F497 Advanced Seminar

NATURAL AND MATHEMATICAL SCIENCES

Astronomy (for non-science majors)
A100 The Solar System
A102 Gravity the Great Attractor: Evolution of Planets, Stars, and Galaxies
A105 Stars and Galaxies
A110 Introduction to Astronomy
A115 Birth and Death of the Universe

Computer Science
A110 Introduction to Computers and Computing

Geography
G107 Physical Systems of the Environment
G109 Weather and Climate
G185 Global Environmental Change

Geology
G103 Earth Science: Materials and Processes
G104 Evolution of the Earth
G105 Earth: Our Habitable Planet

Math
M025 Precalculus Mathematics
M118 Finite Mathematics
EDUC-X101 Learning Strategies for Math (must be taken in conjunction with MATH-M118)
M119 Brief Survey of Calculus I

Music
Z361 Introduction to MIDI and Computer Music

Psychology
P101 Introductory Psychology I

Sociology
S110 Charts, Graphs, and Tables

ARTS AND HUMANITIES

E295 Survey of Hip Hop
F101 Introduction to Folklore
F111 World Music and Culture
F112 Black Music of Two Worlds
F131 Introduction to Folklore in the United States
F205 Folklore in Video and Film
F225 Forms of Commemoration
F235 Personal Narratives: A Course in Folklore and Literature
F252 Folklore and the Humanities
  • Ways of Speaking
  • Global Pop Music
F301 African Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Mbira Performance & Culture
  • Sounding & Imaging: Music in African Film
  • African Folklore
  • Music in African Life
F305 Asian Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • East Asian Popular Religion
  • Korean Folklore
  • Chinese Film and Music: Sounds and Images
F307 Middle Eastern Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Art & Architecture in Turkey
  • Middle Eastern & Arab Mythology
  • Turkish Traditional Arts
  • Tales Women Tell in the Arab World
  • Middle Eastern Folklore
  • Middle Eastern Narrative Folk Poetry: Ballad & Epic
• Narrative & Gender: Tales Arab Women Tell
• Tales Middle Eastern Women Tell
• Middle East Ballads & Narrative Poetry
F308 Middle Eastern and Arab Mythology
F312 European Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• European Folklore
• European Folk Musics
• Roma (Gypsy) History and Culture
F315 Latin American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• Musics & Cultures of Latin America
• South American Performance & Culture
F320 Pacific Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• Pacific Folklore
• Australian Folklore
F351 North American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• American Folk Music
• Regional & Ethnic Musics of America
• American Regional Music
• American Vernacular Architecture
• North American Folklore
F352 Native American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• Native American Folklore
• Native American Narrative
• Native American Communication & Performance
• Native American Myth & Folk
• Native American Mythology
F354 African American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• African American Folklore
• Black Religious Music
• Culture/Communication in Spike Lee Films
• Motown
• Socio-Cultural Perspective/Afro-American Music
• The Films of Black Women
F356 Chicano Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• Mariachi Performance & Culture
• Salsa Ensemble
F358 Jewish Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
• Jewish Folklore
F359 Exploring Jewish Identity Today
F360 Indiana Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Indiana Folklore
F363 Women’s Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Voices of Women
  • Women, Folklore & Gender
  • Women’s Folklore
  • Women’s Folklore & Embodiment
F364 Children’s Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F369 Aliens, Psychics, & Ghosts
F389 Hip-Hop Music and Culture
F397 Popular Music of Black America
F400 Individual Study in Folklore
F404 Topics in Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Culture & Music Representation
  • Festival & Celebration
  • Field School: Indiana Folk Arts Survey
  • Field School: Indiana Traditions
  • Culture, Disability & Community
  • The Folklorist & the Museum
  • Vernacular Religion
  • Concept of Tradition in Folklore
  • Field Seminar in Cultural Documentation
  • Putting Folklore to Use
F410 Multimedia in Ethnomusicology
F420 Forms of Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
  • Colloq in Poetic Scansion & Music
  • The Folk Narrative
  • Kinship & Family Tradition, Com & Lore
  • Stories and Stereotypes
  • Folk Poetry & Folk Song
  • Folk Stories
  • Forms of Commemoration
  • Tall Tales & Television in Africa
  • Survey of Folk Narrative
F440 Folklife and Material Culture Studies
  • Museum & Material Culture
  • The American Home: Vernacular Architecture
  • Body Art
  • Turkish Art & Architecture
• Arts, Crafts, and Commerce
F450 Music in Religious Thought and Experience
F492 Traditional Musical Instruments
F494 Transcription and Analysis of Traditional Music
CULTURAL STUDIES LIST A

F112 Black Music in Two Worlds
F295 Survey of Hip Hop
F301 African Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F305 Asian Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F307 Middle Eastern Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F315 Latin American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F320 Pacific Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F351 North American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F352 Native American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F353 Native American Film and Video
F354 African American Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F356 Chicano Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F358 Jewish Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F359 Exploring Jewish Identity Today
F360 Indiana Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F361 Traditional Arts Indiana: Documenting Indiana Traditions
F363 Women’s Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F364 Children’s Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F389 Hip-Hop Music and Culture
F397 Popular Music of Black America

CULTURAL STUDIES LIST B

F312 European Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
- European Folklore
- European Folk Musics
- Roma (Gypsy) History and Culture

TOPICS

E103 Why Do We Tell Stories?
E103 Latino Popular Music
E103 What is Myth?
E103 Juke Joint to Choir Loft
E103 Women’s Bodies, Women’s Selves
F205 Folklore in Video and Film

INTENSIVE WRITING
F420 Forms of Folklore/Folklife/Folk Music
F369 Aliens, Psychics, & Ghosts
F389 Hip-Hop Music and Culture

FRESHMAN SEMINAR

S103 Black Women in Music
S103 War & Peace in America
S103 What is Myth?

CROSS-LISTED COURSES

AAAD-A112 Black Music of Two Worlds (FOLK-F112)
AAAD-A290 Socio-Cultural Prspctv. of Afro-American Music (FOLK-F252)
AAAD-A295 Survey of Hip Hop (FOLK-F295)
AAAD-A392 Afro-American Folklore (FOLK-F354)
AAAD-A397 Popular Music of Black America (FOLK-F397)
AAAD-A489 Rap Music (FOLK-F389)
AAAD-A496 Black Religious Music (FOLK-F354)
CEUS-U320 European Folk Musics (FOLK-F312)
MUS-M397 Popular Music of Black America (FOLK-F397)
Folklore

Sandra K. Dolby (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1975) Professor. Narrative; literary theory; the United States, Australia.

Hasan El-Shamy (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1967) Professor. Folktale, ballad; psychological approaches; Africa, the Middle East.

Michael Dylan Foster (Ph.D., Stanford University, 2003) Assistant Professor. Japanese literature and cultural studies; folklore and popular culture.

Jason Jackson (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1998) Chair of the Department; Director of the Folklore Institute; Associate Professor. Cultural endangerment and revitalization; material culture; belief and ritual; cultural history; verbal art; museum work; American and Native American Studies (eastern North America).

John H. McDowell (Ph.D., University of Texas, 1975) Professor. Verbal art, semiotics, narrative song, and speech play; Latin America, the United States.

Gregory A. Schrempp (Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1987) Associate Professor. Myth, cosmology and worldview; comparative mythology, history of ideas; Oceania, North America.

Pravina Shukla (Ph.D., University of California, Los Angeles, 1998) Associate Professor; Director of Undergraduate Studies. Folk art and material culture; body art; dress; food; museum studies; India, Brazil.
Ethnomusicology

Portia K. Maultsby (Ph.D., University of Wisconsin, 1974) Professor; Director, Archives of African American Music and Culture. Popular music, the music industry, African American music.

Mellonee V. Burnim (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1980) Professor; Director of the Ethnomusicology Institute. Black religious music and aesthetics, music in the African Diaspora.

Judah Cohen (Ph.D., Harvard University, 2002) Assistant Professor; Lou and Sybil Mervis Professor of Jewish Culture. Music in Jewish life; American music; musical theater; popular culture; Caribbean Jewish history; diaspora; medical ethnomusicology.

Javier F. León (Ph.D., University of Texas, Austin, 2003) Assistant Professor. Music of Latin America and Caribbean; identity; transnationalism; music and nationalism; performance.

David McDonald (Ph.D., University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, 2006) Assistant Professor. Performance ethnography; social theory; ethnomusicological study of violence and socio-cultural trauma; Israel, Palestine.

Fernando Orejuela (Ph.D., Indiana University, 2005) Lecturer. Hip hop music and culture; body art; children’s folklore; popular culture; pedagogy; United States.

Daniel Reed (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1999) Associate Professor. Music and religion; identity; performance; music and culture in West Africa.

Ruth M. Stone (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1979) Laura Boulton Professor. Music as culture and performance; theory of ethnomusicology; Africa, the Middle East.

Sue Tuohy (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1988) Senior Lecturer. Ethnomusicology; film and music; intellectual history; music and socio-political transformation; music and culture in contemporary China; East Asia.
Joint Faculty

Beverly Stoeltje (Ph.D., University of Texas, 1979) Professor of Anthropology. Ritual and festival; feminist theory; the American West, Ghana, West Africa.

Adjunct Faculty

John Bodnar (Ph.D., University of Connecticut, 1975) Professor of History; Director, Oral History Research Center. Oral and public history; modern United States.

Alan R. Burdette (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1997) Director of the Archives of Traditional Music; Executive Investigator, EVIA Digital Archive Project. American vernacular music and dance, performance studies, German American singing societies; media and technology.

Raymond J. DeMallie Jr. (Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1971) Professor of Anthropology; Director, American Indian Studies Research Institute; Curator of North American Ethnology, William Hammond Mathers Museum.

Michael Robert Evans (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1999) Associate Professor of Journalism. Ethnography, material culture, communications.

Cornelia Fales (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1993) Director, Sound Analysis and Video Lab: Music cognition; timbre perception; historical concepts of timbre; music of Sub-Saharan Africa.

Jane Goodman (Ph.D., Brandeis University, 1999) Associate Professor of Communication and Culture. Ethnography of texts; performance studies; diasporas; North Africa and France.

Lynn Hooker (Ph.D., University of Chicago, 2001) Assistant Professor of Hungarian Studies, Department of Central Eurasian Studies. Race, ethnicity, music and identity in east-central Europe, especially Hungary, from 19th century to the present; music and writings of Béla Bartók.
Stephanie Kane (Ph.D., University of Texas, 1986) Associate Professor of Criminal Justice. Popular culture, narrative, feminist theory, shamanic discourse; United States, Central America, Caribbean.

Anya Peterson-Royce (Ph.D., University of California, Berkeley, 1974) Chancellor's Professor of Anthropology, Comparative Literature, and Music. Anthropology of dance and performing arts; cultural and ethnic identity; ethnography of Mexico, Isthmus Zapotec of Juchitan; American Southwest, Mexico.

Iris Rosa (M.S., Indiana University, 1974) Professor of African American and African Diaspora Studies; Director, Afro-American Dance Company. Dance.

Susan Seizer (Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1997) Associate Professor of Communication and Culture: Cultural anthropology; ethnographic narrative; stigma in social theory; humor in use; performance studies; South Asian studies; disability studies; gender and women’s studies; LGBTQ studies.

Stephen Stuempfle (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1990) Executive Director of the Society for Ethnomusicology: Caribbean music, festivity and verbal traditions; Caribbean history; colonialism and nationalism; museums.

Research Associates & Scholars

Inta Carpenter (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1989) Associate Research Scholar: Ethnic; exile; diaspora identity; life story; cultural documentation/ethnography; applied folklore.

Jon Kay (M.A., Western Kentucky University, 1997) Research Associate, Director of Traditional Arts Indiana: Indiana folklife; public folklore.

Verlon Stone (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1979) Director of the Liberian Collections Project.
Folklore Librarian

Moira Smith (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1992) Subject Librarian for Anthropology, Folklore, Sociology, and Social Work: Witchcraft; humor.

Emeriti

Ilhan Basgoz (Ph.D., University of Ankara, Turkey, 1949) Professor. Oral literature, epics, romances; Asia, Near East, Turkey.

Richard Bauman (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1968) Distinguished Professor. Narrative, drama, religion; performance studies, semiotics; Mexico, the United States.

Mary Ellen Brown (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1968) Professor. Ballad, folksong; historical ethnology and cultural criticism; Scotland, Britain, Europe, the United States.

Linda Dégh (Ph.D., University of Budapest, Hungary, 1943) Distinguished Professor. Narrative, mass media, ethnicity; Indiana, the United States, Canada, Hungary, Europe.

Henry H. Glassie (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1969) College Professor. Folk art and material culture; historical approaches; the United States, Ireland, Turkey, Bangladesh.

William Hansen (Ph.D., University of California, Berkeley, 1970) Professor. Epic, classical mythology; the ancient world.

Roger Janelli (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1975) Professor. Culture, religion, political economy; anthropological approaches; Korea, East Asia.

John William Johnson (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1978) Associate Professor. Computer assisted research; popular culture; epic and oral poetry; Somalia, Mali, Africa.

William Wiggins (Ph.D., Indiana University, 1974) Professor. Religion, sports; Black America.

Selected Faculty Book List

Specific information on undergraduate programs may be requested from:

Krystie Herndon
Undergraduate Advisor
(812) 856-4621
kherndon@indiana.edu

Michelle Melhouse
Departmental Recorder
(812) 855-0389
mmelhous@indiana.edu

Dr. Pravina Shukla
Director of Undergraduate Studies
(812) 856-1715
pravina@indiana.edu

Dr. Jason Jackson
Department Chair
Director of the Folklore Institute
(812) 856-1868
jbj@indiana.edu

Dr. Mellonee Burnim
Director of the Ethnomusicology Institute
(812) 855-4258
burnim@indiana.edu
Helpful Links

Department of Folklore & Ethnomusicology
http://www.indiana.edu/~folklore/index.htm

College of Arts & Sciences
http://www.indiana.edu/~college/

Career Development Center
http://www.indiana.edu/~career/

Office of the Bursar
http://bursar.indiana.edu

Office of the Registrar
http://registrar.indiana.edu/

Office of Student Financial Assistance
http://www.indiana.edu/~sfa