
What: Students will become familiar with the natural and anthropogenic perturbations that initiate or sustain environmental changes

- Develop critical thinking and broad perspectives in understanding the dynamics involved in change
- Examine physical, chemical, biological, ecological environmental changes, and resulting impacts, pressures, interventions and societal response.

Research-Based Science Learning

Measuring water levels, Lake Chad