

Workshop

INTERACTIVE VIDEO CONFERENCING & YOUR CLASSROOM

~~ CONNECT YOUR STUDENTS WITH THE WORLD

 Opportunity for IUB professors & instructors ***
Space is limited.

What: This half-day workshop will explore the role of and models for using interactive video (IAV) in your courses to engage your students globally. It will provide both pedagogical and technological training. The workshop is free.

When: Friday, April 10, 2009
8:45 a.m. – 9:00 a.m. Arrival
9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. Program

Where: Center for the Study of Global Change
International Programs Building
201 N Indiana Ave, corner of 6th

Why In its 2008 International Strategic Plan, IU formally recognizes the importance of enhancing the global competency of students and faculty, asserting that we are in the midst of a new era in international education. Since not every student or class can go abroad, we are increasingly reliant on innovative interactive communication technologies to promote international dialogue, diverse perspectives, civic engagement, and global competency. IAV is one such technology with great potential for direct, live, visual, and verbal communications to connect our student with experts and peers around the world.

IAV Curriculum Development Grants:

A number of one-time grants will be available only to workshop participants. These grants will support the inclusion of at least one international IAV session in one of your courses in the Fall 09 semester. More details will be provided in the workshop.

To REGISTER, please contact: Deb Hutton, 856-4827, global@indiana.edu

Sponsored by:

The ENGAGE Project (Encourage Global Awareness, Global Engagement)

A project of the Center for the Study of Global Change, the International Studies Program, & the Hutton Honors College