

The Center for the Study of Global Change and the School of Global and International Studies in conjunction with the British Council are honored to welcome Linda Woodhead, Professor of Sociology of Religion in the Department of Politics, Philosophy & Religion, Lancaster University

God has a Purpose for You: the global transformation of religion since the 1980s

SCHOOL OF GLOBAL & INTERNATIONAL
STUDIES

Religion has changed profoundly since the 1980s, not just in the West but across the world. This talk will attempt to isolate some of the main changes and to relate them to broader social, economic, political and technological shifts. Particular attention will be paid to the shift from “an economy of salvation” to “an economy of fulfillment” in many religions, to new ways in which religions carry identities, and to crises of traditional religious leadership.

This lecture is part of the Global Perspective Speakers Series of the School of Global and International Studies

Tuesday, April 2, 2013, 4:00 – 5:30 pm,
Bridgewaters Lounge, Neal-Marshall Black
Culture Center

For more information, contact
nmcgrath@uemail.iu.edu

<http://www.indiana.edu/~global/>

Linda Woodhead