Christine Brandel

Assistant Professor of English, Liberal Arts
Ivy Tech Community College, Bloomington
Tel: 812.330.6291

Course: ENGL 111 English Composition

To develop critical reading, research, and writing skills, my students read and write about issues relating to higher education. Because of my ICAB experiences, my students now also examine higher education in other countries—investigating similarities and differences in an effort to make informed assessments of the strengths and weaknesses of higher education in the US.

Bio:

Christine Brandel taught composition, literature, and creative writing at universities in Ohio, taught English and humanities as a secondary school teacher and college lecturer in England, and currently is an assistant professor of English at Ivy Tech Community College-Bloomington, where she also co-advise the Creative Writing Club. Additionally, she is a writer and poet whose work has appeared in literary journals throughout the US, UK, and online.
