Luise Prior McCarty
Assistant Professor in Philosophy of Education
Faculty
School of Education
Indiana University, Bloomington
Email: lmccarty@indiana.edu
Phone: (812) 856-8385

Course: H205 – Introduction to Educational Thought
This was initially an educational foundations course for the teacher preparation program in the School of Education. I first changed the course into a liberal arts style course, approved for the General Education Curriculum, as the study of education from a philosophical perspective. The ICAP reconstruction of the course has cosmopolitan education as its overarching theme. Students will investigate what it means to become cosmopolitan citizens and what such an education might encompass.

Bio
Luise Prior McCarty is Associate Professor in the Philosophy of Education, Department of Educational Leadership & Policy Studies, IU School of Education (SoE). She was Associate Dean for Graduate Studies in the SoE, and she is currently chair of their International Programs Committee. She teaches courses in pre-service teacher education programs and she does research on cosmopolitanism and comparative higher education.