

Annual Paul Lucas Conference in History

CALL FOR PAPERS: The History Graduate Student Association at Indiana University invites panel and individual paper proposals for the Annual Paul Lucas Conference to be held March 23–25, 2012 on the Bloomington campus of Indiana University. This year’s conference “Ruptures and Revolutions: Moments of Change and Unrest?” seeks to explore the impact and meaning of transformations and unrest in an increasingly global community.

The conference welcomes submissions from a variety of fields that employ a wide array of methodologies. The committee encourages submissions of pre-organized panels (comprised of three or four panelists, in addition to the chair and a discussant), roundtable sessions, and creative poster presentations. Individual papers are also welcome and will be assigned by the Conference Committee to a suitable panel.

Graduate and undergraduate students, journalists, activists and members of the community who study or actively engage in protests and moments of change are cordially invited to submit papers and posters addressing all topics pertaining to contemporary and past political and social movements; revolutions in, but not limited to:

- Technology, Medicine, and Science
- Land, Space, and Human Geographies
- Social, International, and Environmental Law
- Performance, Aesthetics, and Tradition
- Oral History and Material Culture
- History, Memory, and Identity
- Environment and Sustainability
- Media and Visual Culture
- Rhetoric, Language, and Representation
- Community Activism and Civil Society

The deadline for all submissions is January 4, 2012. Please direct all submissions and inquiries to: hgsaconf2012@gmail.com.

General Information: Conference participation does not require a registration fee. The HGSA regrets that it cannot provide any travel funding to participants. Visiting participants should, also, contact hgsaconf2012@gmail.com to inquire about accommodations.
