ISLAMOPHOBIA:
Roots and Repercussions

Join us for an expert panel of IU faculty and students on the topic of Islamophobia. Short media clips and Q&A sessions will punctuate the panel presentations.

WHEN

Thursday, October 27, 2016, 6:00 - 9:00 pm

WHERE

School of Global and International Studies (SGIS) Auditorium

SPEAKERS

Ron Sela: Associate Professor, CEUS and International Studies, Director of the Islamic Studies Program, “The Crisis in Religious Authority in Islam”

Guadalupe González Diéguez: Assistant Professor, Jewish Studies and Near Eastern Languages and Cultures “Under the Tents of Ishmael: Diversity in Medieval Islam”

Seema Golestaneh: Assistant Professor, Department of Central Eurasian Studies “Fatima is Fatima: Misconceptions surrounding Islam and Gender”

Amali Ibrahim: Assistant Professor, Department of Religious Studies and Department of International Studies “‘Good’ and ‘Bad’ Muslims in the Post-9/11 World”

Mohamed El Marzouki: Doctoral Student, Indiana University School of Journalism “The Media Origins of Islamophobia”

MODERATOR

Lee A. Feinstein, Dean for the School of Global and International Studies

SPONSORS

Department of International Studies, Islamic Studies Program, School of Global and International Studies, Department of Central Eurasian Studies, Department of Near Eastern Languages and Cultures, History Department, Anthropology Department, School of Public and Environmental Affairs, Bloomington Against Islamophobia, Muslim Student Association, Center for the Study of the Middle East