Even though it may seem far in the future, if you are thinking about or planning on going on to graduate study and have an interest in doing a graduate degree at a British or Irish university, please feel welcome to attend an information session on the Rhodes, Marshall, Mitchell, and Churchill scholarships on Thursday, April 5, from 12:30 to 2 p.m. OR from 3 to 4 p.m. at the Hutton Honors College, 811 E. Seventh Street. These scholarships are among the most prestigious graduate scholarships offered to American students and attract strong candidates from around the country.

Attending one of these sessions would be especially important for students who intend to apply for nomination this fall as they should begin working on their applications and talking with those who might write references as soon as possible. Freshmen and sophomores will also find it useful to attend one of these sessions in order to be well-informed about these opportunities when they become eligible to apply.

This year’s CAMPUS DEADLINE for all four scholarships is MONDAY, SEPT. 10, 2012.

Whether or not you are able to attend an information session, please click on these links to learn more about the IU nomination process for these scholarships, and follow the links on the HHC pages to learn more about the scholarships themselves:
