This course will provide fundamentals in molecular biology and discuss recent developments in the fields. Students will also learn basic experimental techniques of molecular biology in the lab course.