Z415 26933-Connections: Music-Art-Literature – 3 credits

Tuesday evening, 6:30-9, David Ward-Steinman

"This class explores interrelationships among the arts—music, art, literature, dance, and multimedia. By the end of the semester you should know and understand how the various arts influence each other, and are in turn influenced by the culture and temper of the times they reflect. Matters of style, deep structure, form, and texture are considered in the context of a historical survey from the Renaissance to the present, with emphasis on arts of the 20th and 21st centuries. An after-hours private tour of the IU Art Museum collection will be a feature of the course."
