Student must be admitted to the Hutton Honors College or the Business Honors Program, and at least two full semesters of coursework on a college campus. The overall goal of this course is to develop an awareness of the complexity involved in the communication process in order to communicate effectively both verbally (orally and in writing) and nonverbally in a business setting. The C205 capstone experience is participation in a team case competition. C205 satisfies the criteria for the Shared Goal of Intensive Writing in the Indiana University General Education curriculum. Students may not receive credit for both C205 and (X205, C204, or X204).
