Meets with SPEA-E 272

Application of principles from life and physical sciences to the understanding and management of the environment. Emphasis will be placed on (1) the physical and biological restraints on resource availability and use, and (2) the technological and scientific options to solving environmental problems.

The honors version of this course requires consent of SPEA Honors advisor. Course covers same content as SPEA-E 272; however, students will complete advanced coursework.