Nine Hutton Family Study Abroad Scholars among 217 Students Who Received Hutton International Experiences Program (HIEP) Awards for Summer 2016

Vanessa Gehring ('18, Voice) will be studying music history and performance in Austria, as well as volunteering as a camp counselor for a high school arts summer study abroad program in Italy.

Alexis Goldsmith ('17, English) will be studying Renaissance art in Italy and volunteering on European organic and sustainable farms through the WWOOF program.

Riley Jones ('18, Political Science) will be participating in a summer field school in the Olduvai Gorge in Tanzania.

Maggie Kroh ('17, Painting) will be studying drawing and Florentine art in Italy.

Emma Lager ('18, International Studies) will be studying the European Union and the connections between Eastern and Western Europe in Germany.

Andrew Livera ('19, Neuroscience) will be improving his Korean language skills and taking premedical coursework in South Korea.

Caroline Oates ('18, American Studies) will be interning in Chile.

Cynthia Stanton ('17, Human Biology) will be completing a community health program in Botswana.

Amy Warrington ('18, Speech and Hearing Sciences) will be studying French language and culture in France.

The Hutton International Experiences Program (HIEP) has selected ten students, representing a variety of academic majors, to receive the honor of being named Hutton Family Study Abroad Scholars. The Hutton Family Study Abroad Scholarship was created through a gift by Mr. Hutton's children in honor of their father, Mr. Edward L. Hutton. These ten students join the total of 217 students that received HIEP awards for summer 2016. The HIEP awarded these students a total of $290,200 to assist in their pursuit of an international experience. The HIEP committee also awarded another $187,700 to 73 students going abroad in the upcoming fall semester and academic year.

Thanks to Mr. Hutton's generosity, the HIEP remains the largest source of funding for Indiana University undergraduate students studying, interning, and volunteering abroad. Since its inception in the summer of 2000, a total of $9,501,266 has been awarded to 6468 students.