Introducing the “college experience”

The Contemporary Dance Program in the Department of Kinesiology at Indiana University invites you to experience dance in a university setting. For two weeks, the IU Contemporary Dance Program’s Summer Intensive for High School Students will immerse participants in the world of collegiate dance, from daily technique classes and rehearsals to studies in choreography and dance theory.

Students will live on campus and maintain a rigorous schedule of five courses a day. A culminating performance will showcase student progress and learning over the course of the program.

Recreational activities will include trips to local places of interest and to Indiana University cultural events.

Daily classes include:

- modern and ballet technique
- jazz and ethnic dance forms
- improvisation and composition
- repertory
- dance theory and science

Faculty

Classes will be taught by the faculty of the Indiana University Contemporary Dance Program. For full bios, please visit our website at:
