Pragmatics Festival at Indiana University
April 19-21, 2012
Indiana University, Bloomington

Call for papers

Abstracts for individual (20-minute) presentations are invited in the following areas: interlanguage pragmatics, pragmatic development, cross-cultural pragmatics, pragmatics and discourse, pragmatics and computer-mediated communication, pragmatic development in study abroad contexts, research design in the investigation of pragmatics, and other topics related to cross-cultural or second language contexts.

Keynote speakers

Diana Boxer, University of Florida
César Félix-Brasdefer, Indiana University

Invited sessions will showcase the following topics: medical discourse in cross-cultural contexts, computer-mediated communication, pragmatic development in study abroad contexts, and instruction of pragmatics.

Abstracts must be one page in length (not including references), and must include title of paper and A/V requests.

Abstracts should be submitted through EasyAbstracts (EasyAbs), (http://linguistlist.org/confcustom/pragfest)

Submissions are limited to one individual and one joint abstract per person.

Organizing committee:

Kathleen Bardovi-Harlig
César Félix-Brasdefer
Alwiya Omar

For more information about the conference, please send an email to pragfest@indiana.edu or visit the Pragmatics Festival website at: www.indiana.edu/~pragfest