Cross-border Cooperation and Partnership across the Eastern Border of the European Union with a focus on Romania, Ukraine, and the Republic of Moldova

A Talk by Marcela Slusarciuc, Fulbright Visiting Scholar

January 28, 2019
SGIS 4067, 12:15 pm

This lecture aims to give some background on the framework of the cross-border cooperation developing in the last decades between Member States and Eastern Partner Countries. The talk has information for students and scholars interested in the topic but includes in-depth knowledge of the field with room for more specialized discussion. The first part of the lecture is focused on approaches, legal frames, actors, geographic areas, fields of cooperation, and opportunities and challenges. The second part will include examples or good practices of cross-border cooperation across the Romanian, Ukrainian, and Republic of Moldova borders.

Marcela Slusarciuc received her PhD in economics from the “Stefan cel Mare” University of Suceava in 2013. She is currently a Fulbright visiting scholar conducting postdoctoral research here at IU on international relations and cross-border cooperation.

To request assistance, persons with disabilities who wish to attend this event should contact the REEI office at least two weekdays in advance (812-855-7309 or reei@indiana.edu).

HAMILTON LUZAR
SCHOOL OF GLOBAL AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
Russian and East European Institute