The Department of Spanish and Portuguese and Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies invite you to attend a lecture by

Frank D. McCann

“The Official Story Redux: New Interpretations of 20th-Century Brazilian History”

Friday, March 27
3:00 p.m.
Ballantine Hall 244

Frank D. McCann is Professor Emeritus of History at the University of New Hampshire. He received his PhD in History from Indiana University. Among his many publications are: The Brazilian-American Alliance, 1937-1945 (Princeton University Press, 1973), Modern Brazil: Elites and Masses in Historical Perspective (University of Nebraska Press, 1989) (with Michael L. Conniff), and Soldiers of the Pátria: The Brazilian Army, 1889-1937 (Stanford University Press, 2004). In 1987, the President of Brazil conferred upon him the rank of Comendador in the Order of Rio Branco for his scholarship on U.S.-Brazil relations.

Co-sponsors:
Horizons of Knowledge
American Studies Program
Department of History