The Spread of Misinformation by Social Bots

Dr. Filippo Menczer

As social media become major channels for the diffusion of news and information, they are also increasingly attractive and targeted for abuse and manipulation. This talk focuses on the role played by social bots in the spread of online misinformation. I present machine learning methods to detect astroturf and automated accounts, and a platform to map the spread of fake news on Twitter. Together, these tools enable the study of the strategies and effectiveness of social bots in manipulating our information eco-system. The results suggest that curbing bots is a critical countermeasure to mitigate the harm of online misinformation.

Filippo Menczer is a professor of informatics and computer science at Indiana University, Bloomington, with courtesy appointments in cognitive science and physics. He holds a Laurea in Physics from the Sapienza University of Rome and a Ph.D. in Computer Science and Cognitive Science from the University of California, San Diego. Dr. Menczer is an ACM Distinguished Scientist and a Senior Research Fellow of The Kinsey Institute. He has been the recipient of Fulbright, Rotary Foundation, NATO fellowships, and a Career Award from the National Science Foundation. His research, supported by the NSF, DoD, McDonnell Foundation, and Democracy Fund, focuses on Web and data science, social network analysis, social computation, Web mining, and modeling of complex information networks. His work on the spread of information and misinformation in social media has been covered in many US and international news sources, including The New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, NPR, PBS, CNN, BBC, Economist, Guardian, Atlantic, Reuters, Science, and Nature. Menczer received multiple service awards and currently serves as associate editor of the Network Science journal and on the editorial boards of EPJ Data Science and PeerJ Computer Science.

THE LUNCHEON CLUB PRESENTS

David A. Brenneman

The IU Eskenazi Museum of Art: Past, Present and Future

David Brenneman, Wilma E. Kelley Director of the Sidney and Lois Eskenazi Museum of Art on the IU Bloomington campus, will discuss the following:

- A brief history of the art museum from the time of its founding in 1941 by Herman B Wells and Henry Radford Hope
- The process of preparing the museum for a major renovation, particularly packing, moving and storing the museum’s 45,000 works of art
- The museum renovation plans, and how museum activities will change after it reopens
- Ways the museum is remaining active during the renovation period within the IU community, in Bloomington and beyond.

David A. Brenneman began his duties as director of the IU Sidney and Lois Eskenazi Museum of Art (formerly the Indiana University Art Museum) in 2015. Prior to arriving in Bloomington, David spent nearly twenty years at the High Museum of Art in Atlanta, where he served as Curator of European Art, Chief Curator, and ultimately Director of Collections and Exhibitions. David holds both A.M. and Ph.D. degrees in the History of Art and Architecture from Brown University, and a B.A. in the History of Art from The Pennsylvania State University. One of David’s many accomplishments was serving as Managing Curator for Louvre Atlanta, a three-year collaboration of exhibitions and programs between the High Museum of Art and the Musée du Louvre in Paris. For his work on the project, in 2008 the French government awarded David the Chevalier de l’Ordre des Arts et des Lettres, one of France’s highest cultural honors.

Please make checks payable to the University Club.

Women have been part of Indiana University for 150 of its nearly 200 years, instrumental actors in the development of its excellence and its institutional character. And yet, to look around IU’s campuses we see relatively few examples of institutional recognition for these contributions, in either symbolic or physical form. This talk will describe the projects underway to bridge this visibility gap, including the Women’s Portrait Gallery in the IMU, and how they are being fueled by women’s philanthropy today.

Kristin Browning Leaman, Co-Director of the Bicentennial Oral History Project, will give a multimedia-based talk in which she shares some of these fascinating stories with us. More details are forthcoming in the March newsletter and by email.

The Bicentennial Oral History Project began in 2008 and has collected several hundred stories that bring to light a new history of Indiana University -- a history written from the perspective of those who attended, worked, and interacted with the university -- by collecting histories from IU faculty, staff, and alumni university-wide. These oral histories provide a first-person perspective on the history of Indiana University available through no other source.

A big THANK YOU for the generous donations of our Life Members in 2017! With your help last year we purchased a microwave and a coffee pot for the Presidents’ Room kitchen, a new sound system and sound board to accommodate the luncheon speakers, live music and PowerPoint presentations. We still need funds to refurbish the grand piano in the Faculty Room. Our top priority now is the purchase of a new office computer to replace our ten year old one, which we are nursing along daily. We hope you will consider becoming a Life Sponsor by contributing to the replacement fund and mailing your check today. Please make your check payable to the University Club. Your special gift, in any amount, will aid with the upkeep of our Club and maintain our beautiful rooms.

The 22 murals, originally created for the Indiana Hall at the 1933 Century of Progress Exposition, were given to the university by the state in 1940. Benton was part of the Regionalist art movement, depicting everyday people in scenes of life in the USA. Some of the depictions in the Indiana murals have been controversial, and our docent will take us through all aspects of this important work.

Please call Bobbie Weinberg by February 16th to sign up for the meeting and lunch.

The University Club has a new Interest Group!

Mah Jongg is a tile-based game that originated in China. It is commonly played by four player. The game is played with a set of 144 tiles based on Chinese characters and symbols, although some regional variations may omit some tiles and/or add unique tiles. In most variations, each player begins by receiving 13 tiles. In turn players draw and discard tiles until they complete a legal hand using the 14th drawn tile to form 4 melds (or sets) and a pair (eye). The Mah Jongg group meets each Friday. For more information, please contact the group chair.

Currently we have two tables of Mah Jongg and are open to new members who know how to play or are interested in learning the game. We are playing American style but may approach Chinese style later.

HIKING IN SOUTHERN INDIANA

The hiking group this year is doing four hikes, two at The Nature Conservancy properties and two on Sycamore Land Trust properties. In the fall, hikers explored Green's Bluff in Owen County under the guidance of Angela Sturdevant and Amy Weingartner Branigin Peninsula Preserve under the guidance of Shane Gibson. We are anticipating two hikes in the winter/spring season.

Six hearty souls hiked the Amy Weingartner Branigin Peninsula Preserve on November 8th. Shane Gibson of the Sycamore Land Trust (SLT) was our guide. He provided an interesting historical perspective about the area as he guided us along the peninsula. The land was a part of Shawnee Bluffs Camp owned by Indiana University Alumni Association. When the camp was sold, 48-acres was preserved as hardwood forest with trails to the peninsula. This property just north of the causeway on Lake Monroe is nestled among the residential properties on Rush Ridge Road off Ind 446. We were welcomed to the shore by a persimmon tree with fruit to taste. Hikers enjoyed the brisk, sunny weather and good company.

The group's next hike will be in March so stay tuned for the details of where that will be. If you want to join this group, contact Kathleen Boggess, kboggess44@gmail.com.

George Eliot's The Mill on the Floss

George Eliot's 1860 novel The Mill on the Floss is sometimes seen as a nostalgic, pastoral lament for simpler places, people, and times now past. Set in the late 1830s in and around the fictional St. Ozzy, by the fictional River Floss (the English Midlands), this autobiographical novel is also an early modern offering complex perspectives on the passing of time, history, place, sexuality, and psychology. For this class we will simply read the novel and talk about it — no fancy lectures, just in-depth conversation about one of the most powerful Victorian novels.

Instructor: Rae Greiner
Fee: $65

Ella Fitzgerald:
The First Lady of Song

Ella Fitzgerald, the First Lady of Song, was the most celebrated singer of her generation, and arguably the finest interpreter of what we call the "Great American Songbook." Blessed with an uncanny sense of time and pitch, it's no wonder Duke Ellington referred to Fitzgerald as "beyond category." In this course, Mark Chilla, the host of WYIN Radio's show of American Popular Song, Afterglow, chronicles the life and career of this immensely talented, yet surprisingly shy, jazz singer, showcasing archive footage of her live performances and trying to uncover what exactly made Ella so good.

Two Wednesdays,
February 21 & 28
7 - 9 p.m.

Instructor: Mark Chilla
Price: $50

---
