Workshoppers Around the World: What Lessons Have We Learned?

Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis
Welcome to the fourth Workshop on the Workshop (WOW4), marking 35 years of inquiry, contestation, and collaboration here at the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis. WOW4 comes at a time of transition, with co-founder Elinor Ostrom stepping down from her administrative position as co-director of the Workshop to assume the newly created position of “senior research director.” This new position will allow her to focus on research and graduate training while turning the administrative reins over to long-time colleagues Michael McGinnis and James Walker, as well as our five-member advisory board.

This transition is both expected and unfamiliar—we have been preparing over the last several years to ensure that it goes smoothly, but at the same time it opens up new and different issues that will have to be confronted. We are looking at WOW4 as an opportunity to gather input and ideas and direction from both old and new colleagues, to reflect on where we have been and look forward to where we are going. We are delighted that Lin will continue in her extraordinary role as researcher, teacher, and mentor, and are so happy to be able to discuss and form our plans for the future with some of the people who know us best.

And we are happy, as always, to hear about all the interesting and creative ways our colleagues are applying Workshop theories to the world around us. WOW4 offers an opportunity to reflect on all the things that we have learned, in a Workshop atmosphere. We hope you enjoy this special event!

James Walker
Professor, Department of Economics

Michael McGinnis
